DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 2, 4, 6, 7, 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claims 2, 4, 6, 7, 9 and 10, the phrase "such as" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether the limitations following the phrase are part of the claimed invention. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kourimsky (5,696,352).

Kourimsky discloses an electric wire (Figs 3 and 4) comprising wire elements (4), each including a conductive portion being made of an electric conductive material, and a convexo-concave surface being formed on the conductive portion to provide predetermined amount of grooves portions having a predetermined section with a predetermined depth extending in a direction toward a center of the conductive portion, on the surface of the conductive portion, along lengthwise the conductive portion, wherein the wire elements are combined integrally to engage the convexo-concave surfaces of wire elements mutually (re claim 1). Kourimsky also discloses the conductive portion being made of metal (copper) (re claim 2), the cross-section of the conductive portion being formed into a round shape (re claims 3 and 4), and the cross-section of the groove being formed into a V-shaped (re claims 5-7).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 8-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kourimsky in view of Swift (2,583,026).

Kourimsky discloses the invention substantially as claimed including one of wire elements having concave or convex portions of an amount of  $N$  and  $N+1$  and engaging with the convex or concave portions of another wire element, wherein the convex or concave in another wire element also having an amount of  $N+1$  and  $N$ .

Kourimsky does not disclose the cross-section of the concave portion being formed into rectangular having elongated vertical side. Swift discloses a wire having outer surface comprising concave portion (Figure 3) which is formed into rectangular having elongated vertical side. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify the concave portion of Kourimsky to be rectangular having elongated vertical side to improve the mechanical interlocking between the wire elements as taught by Swift (col. 3, line 72 through col. 4, line 5).
